"So Many Stars" is the first joint album release by husband-wife duo Alberto Pibiri (piano) and Miriam Waks (voice). The album's song selection includes delicately rendered Italian classics, swinging standards, hard-hitting blues numbers, and love songs. Miriam's linguistic abilities are on display with tunes such as Edith Piaf's "Hymne à L'amour" and Duke Ellington's "Caravan" (featuring rarely performed Spanish lyrics), while her effervescent performance style shines through on "Cabaret". Alberto Pibiri's unique arrangement of the Nina Simone classic "My Baby Just Cares For Me" pays special tribute to Simone's classical background. Enrico Granafei features on Senza Fine & Estate (harmonica &/vocals).

Now based in New York City, Australian vocalist and songwriter Miriam Waks made her performing debut at the tender age of 10 singing solo at the Sydney Opera House. She is a vibrant performer who sings in 17 languages and a vast range of musical styles. Miriam has performed at festivals and venues across the globe including: New York, France, Italy, Brussels, Edinburgh, London, Cuba, India, Macau, & Hong Kong.

Alberto Pibiri is an Italian jazz pianist and composer based in New York for almost a decade. Alberto has performed at concerts and festivals including: Carnegie Hall, Melbourne International Jazz Festival, SunCoast Jazz Festival, Duc De Lombards (France), Calagonone Jazz Festival, Orsara Jazz Festival (Italy). In New York he has worked with many illustrious jazz musicians such as Dave Stryker, Sheila Jordan, Adrian Cunningham, Essiet Essiet, and Les DeMerle.
